- identification cards, passports or driving licenses;
- proof of address;
- source of funds;
- banking information;
- any other documents;

b) for companies or legal entities:
- incorporation documents; • good standing certificates;
- business activities.

Note that for companies and legal entities we may also require additional documents, from time to time.

The Company reserves the right to require any additional documents for Identification, from time to time.

4.2 You hereby agree and undertake to provide us with all information required as part of our procedures. You further authorize us or any of our agents to investigate your identity, credit standing or any past and current activity and in connection with such investigations, to contact such banks, brokers, and any other related party as we shall deem appropriate and necessary from time to time and for that purpose.

4.3 We hereby reserve the right to make necessary amendments, corrections or deletions to any details, particulars and information provided by the Clients at our sole discretion on the Company's trading platform that the said details, particulars or information contained on the application form therein are incorrect, missing, or unnecessary after comparison is made with the Clients KYC documentations.

4.4 Without prejudice to the terms herein, you agree that we shall be held harmless against any loss or damages arising as a result of any delay or failure to process any application or transaction if all such documentation as has been requested by us has not been provided by you or you provided them with a delay.

4.5 Kindly be informed that your data or any documents you will send to us for KYC purposes will be kept or saved based on our Privacy Notice. Privacy Notice terms, conditions and procedures are to be found on our Main Website as amended from time to time. It is your responsibility to read the Privacy Notice and with this Agreement you Agree and accept that you read and understood the Company's Privacy Notice.

5. OUR SERVICES.

5.1 Following to the Terms of this Agreement and the acceptance of your application to open an account with us we shall offer you one account registered in your name and we shall offer you on an execution only basis, a number of financial instruments, contracts for difference (CFDs) where the underling investments include foreign exchange (Fx) contracts connected with provision of the investment service of execution of orders and the provision of investment research and financial analysis. Please visit our website for a full description of the services offered by the Company.

5.2 The Company is not under any obligation to provide you with any advice on any investment, financial, legal, tax or regulation nor does provide you any other form of recommendation. It's understandable that prior to entering into a trade you shall make your assessment of any transaction and shall not rely on any opinion, material or analysis provided by the Company or any of its affiliates, employees and/or any other related parties as advice or recommendation. Please seek independent advice in the event where you are not sure whether you should proceed with the Agreement.

5.3 You hereby acknowledge and agree that the Company is the only execution venue in relation to your trading activity under the Agreement. Although we can transmit your orders for execution to third-party liquidity providers through an electronic communication platform, contractually the Company is the sole counterparty to your trades and any execution of orders is done in the Company's name. For more information, please read our 'Order Execution Policy'.

5.4 For the specific financial instrument, you can trade during our normal trading hours, during which our platform provides prices and which you can give instructions or place orders to trade a CFD on a financial instrument, as described on our website. You hereby acknowledge that you will only be able to trade during these trading hours specified on our website for that relevant financial instrument. Please note that certain financial instruments have specific trading timeframes and can be found in the contract specifications on our website. Please note that prior to trading, you shall be responsible for looking at these contract specifications, for further details. Regarding any Company holidays you shall be notified either through the internal e-mailing system or via other means, such as through our Website.

5.5 The Company will only provide you with services in accordance with their policies and procedures and with the provision that the Company is in no breach of any of its legal obligations. There can be occasions where the Company will not be able to provide you with a reason for refusing the provision of their services, where for example doing so would be in contrast with the law.

Examples of when the Company shall refuse to provide services and/or shall cease the services provided to you:

(i) where the Company has a reasonable cause to believe that you are abusing any of our offerings (e.g., where you are involved in latency abuse, insider trading or abusing the company's system and procedures),

(ii) where there is a regulatory justification for doing so,

(iii) where you have breached the Company's risk parameters, or

(iv) where you have been using inappropriate/ defamatory language

5.6 You hereby acknowledge and agree that CFDs are derivative products and therefore you will not be entitled to own any underlying instrument and that no physical delivery of any underlying asset shall occur.

5.7 Provision of the Services shall not, unless and until specifically agreed between us and you in writing, give rise to any fiduciary or equitable duties to you on our part or that of our group companies. You hereby agree that nothing contained in these Terms shall create any fiduciary, trustee, agency, joint venture or partnership relationship between us or any group Company of ours, on the one hand and your or any group Company of yours on the other.

6. CLIENT CATEGORISATION

6.1 The Company links different administrative protection for each of their categories and hence to Clients within each category. To be more specific, the most administrative protection is offered to the Retail Clients, the Professional Clients usually can evaluate the risk they are taking since they are more advanced, informed and sensible and thus need less administrative protections.

6.2 The Clients also have the opportunity to be able to ask for an online relocation which increases or decreases the amount of administrative protection that is needed. In order for a Client to be able to submit a request for relocation (overall level or product level) he/she needs to meet the specified criteria, which consist of quantitative and qualitative.

6.3 Having a look at the Clients request, the Company has to commence a satisfactory assessment of the experience, expertise and knowledge of the Client in order to be able to give a rational guarantee. This is to make sure that the Client is able to make his/her own investment decisions with the risk that is involved in regard to the nature of the transactions or services considered. Regardless that if the above criteria cannot be met the Company has the right to decide whether to provide services under the specific request.

6.4 We can review your Client categorization at any time, in accordance with the applicable rules and regulation. In the event where a change affects you, you will be notified accordingly.

10.2 Should the Company reasonably suspect that the Client has violated the terms of paragraph 27 of this Agreement, it is entitled to take one or more of the counter measures of paragraph 27.4 of this Agreement.

11. SECURITY, AUTHENCITY AND ACCESS

11.1 When logging into the platform the Clients should use their user ID and password which should be memorised. If there is an unauthorised use of the platform, suspicion of a third party misusing the password then the Client without any delay has the obligation to inform the Company in order to block the Trading Platform. If this is done then the Client can request for a new password. The Company bears no responsibility for the Clients passwords if lost and/or stolen.

11.2 The right to operate the Trading Platform is solely personal and under no circumstance the Client cannot give their user ID or password to third parties. If the Client wishes for a third party to trade under their account, then separate Power of Attorney in regards to the third party should be made. The legal document should be approved by the Company.

11.3 If unlawful usage of the Trading Platforms occurs, then the Client cannot be held liable once the Company is informed.

11.4 For losses of unforeseeable and unexpected circumstances that are beyond the Company's control then the Company will not be held liable for those losses. This is only for unavoidable circumstances that despite all efforts they could not be resolved.

11.5 The Company will not be held liable for any losses resulting from the Client's investment and use of the online programs that are used from the Trading Platforms unless this obligation is based on the rules of law. When using the Trading Platform for Commercial Use, the Client shall ensure that it is appropriately protected from direct and indirect losses that can result from installing and using the specific online programs from the Clients computer. Highlighting the fact that Clients are obligated to have backup copies of their data. If the data is lost then this will result to the Client having losses and the Company bearing no responsibility.

12. INSTRUCTIONS ORDERS

12.1 The Company will only accept instructions transmitted via a durable medium approved by us, including our Software and your registered e-mail address (as indicated in our records). Under certain circumstances, provided that we are satisfied of your identity and of the clarity of the instructions received, we can accept instructions via telephone or in person; note that each Client is responsible to ensure that any instruction provided has been completely understood by the operator. Orders via telephone will be accepted only if they are received in our official language (information can be found bellow or from the 'Order Execution Policy'). It should be noted that the Company reserves the right to reject such verbal orders when the operator of the Dealing Department is not satisfied with the Client's identify or clarity of the orders, request additional information, verify such orders via any means or take any other action Company deems necessary under the circumstances. Contact details of all departments (including the Dealing Department) can be found on our Website; note, that at times of excessive transaction flow there might be a delay in connecting over the telephone with an operator, especially when there are important market announcements.

12.2 The Client may choose to communicate with us for support and any instructions, other than orders, in any of the languages available on our Website during business hours. Communication after business hours that requires immediate action on our behalf will only be accepted in our official language.

12.3 Where information has not been transmitted to us via approved means, or where you have misinterpreted any instruction and/or information, it is your responsibility to make the necessary amendments and we will bear no responsibility for any loss, be it financial or of opportunity in connection to said instruction.

12.4 We bear no responsibility for any loss that arises as a result of delayed or unreceived communication sent by the Company to the Client.

12.5 The Client understands that time is important when trading on Leveraged Products, therefore you are responsible for ensuring that any communication in relation to your dealings with the Company is sent to us on time.

12.6 The Company will execute an instruction received from the Client, without any further enquiry. However, the Client consents that the Company reserves the right to accept, either in part or in full, or reject, any instructions from the Client. Also, the Company may contact the Client if we intend to execute any transactions or future transactions differently following patterns in your trading activity (for instance, where your account balance frequently results in negative equity, the Company may propose that the Client continue trading with a higher margin requirement, irrespective of the applicable trading conditions of other Clients).

12.7 The Company may, at our discretion confirm any instructions received from the Client via any durable medium or telephone. However, you understand that you should not communicate with any of our employees, contractors or otherwise via any means or on any other equipment, which are not our equipment. For example, the Client should not communicate with any of our employees on his/her mobile phone or on any other personal account.

12.8 Where the Client has appointed an Authorised Representative to deal with the Company on the client's behalf, and the client wishes to cancel the appointment, the client must notify us in writing immediately. Until we process the said notice, any instructions we may receive from the Authorised Representative shall (a) be deemed valid, and (b) shall fully commit the client.

12.9 Essential information concerning the execution of any order (among other information), can be obtained through the Software, trading platforms were you are able to download reports which document, in durable medium, information including the execution and status of your order, as well as review the current and historic state of your trades and Account(s). You understand and agree that such reports are deemed to be reports provided by us to you in a durable medium. We might not provide you with statements of account in relation to the financial instruments traded through your Account(s) or the availability of your Client Money or any other detail in any other form other than what is stated above.

12.10 Except where the Software permits, all orders to trade on the financial instruments the Company offers are final and cannot be cancelled or deleted, unless we expressly agree to such cancellation or deletion and/or unless otherwise provided in any of our legal documentation.

13. MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING

13.1 We shall enter into transactions with you and conclude them in good faith.

13.2 You understand and accept that we will execute all your orders outside a Regulated Market, Multilateral Trading Facility or an Organised Trading Facility (i.e. all Client orders will be executed over-the-counter ('OTC')). For more information, you should read the 'Order Execution Policy', as amended from time to time. By accepting the Agreement and placing any order with us you expressly provide your prior express consent before proceeding to execute your orders outside a trading venue. This consent is hereby provided in the form of a general agreement and not in respect of individual transactions.

13.3 We will take necessary steps to ensure compliance with the applicable rules and regulations. Therefore, you agree to be bound by any decision we make in order to comply with any rule, regulation or obligation of our Company.

13.4 Where we provide you via our Website, with any links to other websites and/or resources from third parties, these links are provided for information only. We have no control over the content, quality or security of the information contained on those websites and/or resources, and therefore we cannot be made responsible for any losses that may arise from your use of these.

13.5 We take reasonable care in trying to ensure that any information and/or content, including third-party features on our Website, the Software and e-mail communications from us is accurate and complete. However, some information may be provided 'as is' and on an 'if available' basis and therefore we cannot give any warranties or representations (either expressed or implied), relating to the said features and any third-party information.

13.6 The product specifications and/or conditions are to be found on our Website, as amended from time to time. It is your responsibility to ensure that you remain updated with regards to our product specifications and conditions, as well as any other information and you shall take all necessary actions to safeguard your interest where you believe you may be affected. You understand that the product specifications and/or conditions may be varied. You will continue to be bound by the Agreement in the event of any of these amendments taking place. However, nothing in this clause will affect your right to terminate the Agreement, without any penalty whatsoever, subject to any existing obligations.

13.7 Further to the clause above, you understand that we may remove any of our products and/or cease providing you with the ability to place an order at any time. Where we have ceased to provide any product and you have a previously open position in that product, it is your responsibility to cancel and/or close such position, otherwise we will close the position at the last available price for the relevant instrument. You also understand that any open positions on CFDs with expiration date will be automatically closed at the end of the last trading day.

13.8 You understand that in order for us to provide you with our services, we may enter into agreements with external service providers for any activity and/or operation we may conduct. As stated above, we will do our best to maintain the operation of our systems. Further, you understand and accept that we cannot and do not accept any responsibility for any means you use to access the services we provide and cannot guarantee the continued availability of any other person's site or address.

13.9 Where there is a joint account or a legal entity between one or more people, , all obligations and liabilities under the Agreement shall be joint and several. Any communication, including but not limited to notices and orders shall be considered as delivered to all people that together constitute the Client.

13.10 We reserve the right to reverse any transactions, which we deem to be contrary to your interest or ours, for any reason.

13.11 Where you are in breach (or we have reasonable grounds to believe you may be in breach) of any term contained in the Agreement, we reserve the right to temporarily or permanently suspend your access to the Software, your Account(s), and/or terminate the Agreement, and/or take any other actions as we may see fit in the circumstances.

13.12 By becoming a Client of our Company, you do not obtain any rights in any intellectual property belonging to us. Our Website, the Software, any data, information, documentation and/or creation shall be protected in accordance with the applicable laws and you shall have no right, neither at the time of entering into the Agreement, nor at any point of time in the future. All rights whether expressed or implied, and whether existing now or in the future are reserved.

13.13 You shall not cause or permit any actions to be caused, which might endanger or damage any intellectual property belonging to us and/or do any other act which would be damaging and or defamatory against our Company.

13.14 You understand that you shall not copy, reproduce, duplicate, translate, assume ownership or otherwise of any rights belonging to our Company.

14. CONFILCTS OF INTEREST

14.1 The Client acknowledges and accepts that he/she has read and understood the 'Conflicts of Interest Policy' document, which is uploaded on the Company's main Website.

14.2 The aim of this policy (hereinafter the "Policy") is to specify the procedures put in place by the Company, for identifying and reasonably managing and controlling and where possible, mitigating and where necessary disclosing any conflict of interest arising in relation to its business.

14.3 The Company is required to take all reasonable steps to detect and avoid conflicts of interest between:

a) The Company, including its directors, managers, employees, tied agents, appointed representatives and/or any person directly or indirectly linked to it by control, and its Clients, or between

b) One Client and another Client, that arise in the course of providing any investment and ancillary services, or combinations thereof, including those caused by the receipt of inducements from third parties or by the Company's own remuneration and other incentive measures, which adversely affect the Company' s Clients.

14.4 The Company is committed to act honestly, fairly, and professionally and in the best interest of its Clients and to comply with the principles set out in the above legislation when providing investment services to its Clients.

14.5 Further details and/or information can be found in the Company's 'Conflicts of Interest Policy' document

15. SAGEGUARDING OF CLIENTS FUNDS.

15.1 The Company has to ensure that every measure is taken in order to make sure that the Clients funds are not used for its own account.

15.2 The Clients funds will be held in any Clients Bank Account which will be specified by the Company.

15.3 The Company has to keep separate records of its own funds/assets in the accounting system of those of their Clients. This is to ensure that at any time and with no delay the separated funds of each Client can be distinguished from its own.

16. YOUR MONEY

16.1 In relation with the International Regulations, all Clients must state their name and specify all the information required on the payment document. This is due to the high rates of money laundering and terrorism financing. Payment from third parties paid directly in the Clients Trading Account(s) are not accepted by the Company.

16.2 Amounts transferred from the Client to the Client's Account will be transferred to the account on the 'value date' and within 24 business hours. The amount deposited will be net of any deductions or charges by the Client's Bank Account providers. The Company bears no responsibility for any losses suffered in the event where the Client's account reached a stop-out throughout the deposit processing period.

16.3 The following cases are examples of when the Company has the right to decline a Clients request to transfer funds, including, without limitation:

a) Third parties transferring funds;

b) Under reasonable suspicions by the Company that the person transferring the funds was not an authorized person;

c) If the Labuan Financial Services and Securities Act 2010 is violated by the transfer.

In any of the above examples, the Company transfers back the funds with the same method as received to the transferor. Relevant Clients Bank Account provider charges will be applied to the Client.

16.4 The Company is authorised upon Client's consent to act on behalf of the Client and make deposits and withdrawals from the Client's Bank Account, for payment of all amounts outstanding by or on behalf of the Client to the Company and/or any other person, including but not limited, the settlement of any transaction performed by or on behalf of the Client.

16.5 The Client has the right, without closing the account, to withdraw from the Client's Account the funds which are not used for margin covering, free from any obligations.

16.6 Any amount payable to the Client needs to be transferred directly to the Client's personal Account unless it is agreed by both parties in writing otherwise. On the Company's Main Website, the time period is stated of when fund transfer requests are processed by the Company. However, the time needed for crediting the funds into the Client's personal account will depend on the Client's Bank Account Provider.

16.7 It is the Company's policy to ensure that all Client's withdrawals, either in part or in full of the funds the Client's deposits with the Company is sent to the same source where the funds came from. The Company reserves the right to accept or decline any funding and/or withdrawal request by the Client with a specific payment method and may suggest to the Client an alternative for his/her request and/or request further documentation while processing the withdrawal request. The Company, where appliable reserves the right to transfer Client's funds only in the currency as these funds were deposited. The Company, where applicable reserves the right to reverse the withdrawal transaction and deposit the amount back to the Client's Account net of any charges and/or fees by the Client's Bank Account Providers, if it is not satisfied and/or fulfilled with the documentation provided by the Client.

16.8 Any Client fund transfer or withdrawal request will be performed by the Company's Client portal locator through the Main Website.

16.9 Acknowledgement by the Client should be made that if for any reason or for any period the Clients Bank Account is frozen then the Company bears no responsibility and the Client's funds will also be frozen. Additional information is provided on each payment method and can be found on the Company's Client portal while the Client acknowledges that he/she has read and understood the terms.

16.10 Upon acceptance of this agreement, the Client gives their consent and authorization to the Company, where applicable, to transfer/hold his/her funds to another authorized broker in which the Client's funds will be located on a segregated Client's Bank Account. The Client also consents that his/her funds, where applicable, may be deposited into an omnibus account.

17. SETTLEMENT OF TRANSACTIONS

17.1 When a transaction is executed then the Company can proceed to the settlement of the transaction unless it was agreed otherwise. The settlements should be in accordance with the Financial Instrument or the marked implicated.

17.2 A monthly account statement can be provided to the Clients from the Company. However, if there were not transactions in the past month then no statement will be provided. Any certification issued by the Company to the Client shall be final and binding to the Client, the Client can file an objection within four Business Days from the date that the statement of the Current Account (certification or confirmation) was received.

17.3 Under paragraph 12.2 of the current Agreement the Company with implement their obligation since an Account Statement can be given to the Client and any transaction made can be obtained through the Company's Trading Platform. Objections from Clients will only be valid for four days from the received date in writing.

18. ORDER EXECUTION POLICY

18.1 All possible steps are taken from the Company to ensure the best results for their Clients when dealing with orders or when receiving and transferring orders for execution. A general overview on the execution of the orders is set out in the Compnay's Order Execution Policy.

18.2 The 'Order Execution Policy' is uploaded on the Company's Main Website and the Clients need to aknowledge and accept the terms of the Policy. In addition, with the acceptance of the current agreement you agree and accept the meaning of the terms of our Order Execution Policy.

19. OUR CHARGES OR FEES

19.1 The Company is entitled to receive fees from the Clients for any services provided or expenses that accumulate from the execution of the services that are at stake. The Company has the right to justify their amountsand percentages of their fees upon request from the Client. However, the Clients will be informed in advance from the Companies main Website.

19.2 The Company can change their fees independently and no consultation or prior consent is needed from the Client. The Client acknowledges and accepts this statement.

19.3 The Client is obligated to pay the due amounts owed, in transferable, cleared and available same day funds, in the currency and in the specified accounts of the Company. The Client cannot make any counterclaims, deductions or withhold payments unless it is required by law.

19.4 The Company can deduct any amount owed to them from any funds that are in hold by the Company on the Clients behalf. The Company under these circumstances is entitled to merge transfers between the Trading Accounts of the Client. In addition, the Company is eligible to close all or any positions in order to collect any unsettled obligations owed to the Company by the Client.

19.5 The Company can issue rates on any due amount owed to them from the Client. The rate will be reasonably decided by the Company and will accrue on a daily basis. Moreover, if the Client fails to make this deposit until the deadline the Company has the right to proceed with the sale of Financial Instruments from the Clients Trading Account without any further notice, unless there is an agreement between the Client and the Company. Once the Company has sold the Financial Instruments then the Client will be informed orally, by email or by a notification through the Trading Platform.
